

1. The counsel of the good is often despised by the world. TWO REASONS:
 1. Because it proceeds from the good.
 2. Because it is unpleasant and contrary to the world's wishes.
 1. Be not conformed to this world. Romans 12:2
 2. Unspotted from the world. James 1:27.
 3. Love not the world. 1Jno. 2:15

2. The counsel of the good may sometimes appear to be uncalled for.

Likely this was felt to be the case with Paul's advice to the captain and the owner of the ship, which was:

 1. Not asked, and may have looked officious.
 1. Advice not needed they think.
 2. Therefore meddlesome.
 2. Not probable, as emanating from a landsman and a prisoner.

3. The advice of the good can seldom be neglected with impunity.
 1. Storm during the voyage. V. 14.
 2. God's advice. Gen. 6:3.
 3. Christ's advice. Mark 16:16.
