

TWO WORDS TO AVOID

1. THE TWO WORDS ARE: "IF ONLY"

1. These two words "if only" are words of failure.

Examples:

1. If only I had started sooner, I would not have missed the plane.
2. If only I had done it differently it would have been better. Maybe
3. If only I had not lost my head.
4. If only I had not said that cruel thing it would have been different between us.
5. If only I had been more faithful.

THE RESULT OF "IF ONLY"

1. "If only" does not change anything. Examples:
  1. "If only" keeps a man facing the wrong direction.
  2. "If only" can and will become the road block that will stop most any man.
  3. "If only" can become an excuse for not trying any more.
  4. "If only" will always keep a man looking backward instead of forward as he should.

TWO WORDS TO REMEMBER

1. "Next Time" are two words that all should remember.
  1. "Next time" I will push aside that road block and move forward.
  2. "Next time" I will put down that temptation and excel in that which is right.

LESSONS TO LEARN

1. What the "if only" mind really is:
  1. In reality the "if only" mind is the "yesterday mind" of failure.
  2. Under the magic spell of the "yesterday mind" of failure, the golden opportunity of "NEXT TIME" will forever have slipped away.
  3. Why not arm your self with the power, the real power, of the "next time" mind it is going to be different.

TWO WORDS TO AVOID

1. THE TWO WORDS ARE: "IF ONLY"

1. These two words "if only" are words of failure.

Examples:

1. If only I had started sooner, I would not have missed the plane.

2. If only I had done it differently it would have been better. Maybe.

3. If only I had not lost my head.

4. If only I had not said that cruel thing it would have been different between us.

5. If only I had been more faithful.

TWO RESULTS ARE ONLY

1. "If only" does not change anything. Examples:

1. "If only" keeps a man facing the wrong direction.

2. "If only" can and will become twisted back that will stop most any man.

3. "If only" can become an excuse for not trying any more.

4. "If only" will always keep a man looking backward

instead of forward as he should.

TWO WORDS TO REMEMBER

1. "Next time" are two words that all should remember.

1. "Next time" I will push aside that road block and move forward.

2. "Next time" I will put down that temptation and excel in that which is right.

LESSONS TO LEARN

1. What the "if only" mind really is:

1. In reality the "if only" mind is the "yesterday mind" of failure.

2. Under the magic spell of the "yesterday mind" of failure, the golden opportunity of "WISDOM" will forever have slipped away.

3. Why not arm your self with the power, the real power of the "next time" mind it is going to be different.